The screenshot shows a news article titled "Tech News" with a sub-section titled "Safe Social Networking". The text discusses the risks of social networking, such as location sharing and the permanence of posted pictures, and provides advice on staying safe online.

Safe Social Networking

Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat, and Twitter are among the most frequently used social networks. These sites expand rapidly. Young people use social networks to communicate among them. However, the use of these networks has its risks.

First, people can be vulnerable when they publish their locations and what they are doing all the time. People you do not know can get your personal information easily.

They can harm you. I suggest that people avoid doing this.

Second, once your pictures go into cyberspace, they always remain. Pictures can be used to bully you or your family. People should not post pictures that others can use against them. Choose your photos carefully.

Finally, to keep social networking safe, everyone must do their part. Do not give too much information about you and don't post inappropriate photos.
