Soccer

I like due to the vivacity intelligence and spark of the player they manage to disconcert surprise cause logic. I like Soccer because it is a team game.

Although individuality counts more is the mission of helping your partner to uncheck, climb, defend is importante Soccer prevents diseases such as obesity, hypertension, and diabetes. In addition to the physical benefits, this sport also improves mental and emotional health. In addition, this sport increases muscle mass, improves posture and strengthens bones.

I Personally football is engaging, we can see it on the field or on television it is a way of making a group into a family, with a partner, with friends, it does not distinguish between status or sex, it is a way of socializing - yes we like football we will have something in common with many people it will make us strengthen ties
